Dear Mrs. Marshall,

Thank you very much for the instructions for taking part in the audio conference today, I had no difficulties whatsoever.

There are a few new facts concerning our communication which I brought to the attention of the Committee today and I was advised to submit the new documents as soon as possible. Unfortunately I couldn't make it to get them translated today and I am afraid tomorrow or the day after tomorrow may be too late, so I am submitting them attached here in original, I have just highlighted the paragraphs of importance. I hope that at this stage they are needed only as proof of the fact that the communicant has really exhausted all domestic remedies (as one of the requirements for preliminary admissibility) and the Committee is interested in the mere existence of these documents rather than their detailed contents and hence they might be accepted in the original language...

If you find this acceptable, could you please hand them in to the Committee?

Thank you very much.

Sincerely,
Georgi Serbezov
