

Japan's Comments on EVSC

Transmitted by JAPAN

For the following two reasons, Japan considers it too hasty to make the EVSC installation uniformly mandatory for different vehicle categories. Firstly, there have not yet been enough heavy-duty vehicles equipped with EVSC on the market. Secondly, with various combinations of vehicle categories applicable in the current proposal, including trailers, it is not clear as to whether performance of EVSC in those combined vehicles can be ensured. Japan therefore requests that the EVSC requirements be optional, not mandatory, if they are incorporated into ECE R13.