I. PREAMBLE

The United Nations through UN/CEFACT (United Nations Centre for the facilitation of procedures and practices for administration, commerce and transport) supports activities dedicated to improving the ability of business, trade and administrative organisations, from developed, developing and transitional economies, to exchange products and relevant services effectively. Its principal focus is to facilitate international transactions, through the simplification and harmonisation of procedures and information flows.¹

Globalisation of the marketplace is taking place rapidly, with companies sourcing components in one part of the world, assembling them in another part of the world and selling them in yet another. The trend towards transacting business through electronic means is leading to more physical goods flows with smaller and more frequent shipments of goods and commodities. This globalisation of markets has resulted in the growing need for even more efficient and effective information flows. The solution to achieving effective information flows across international markets lies in the use of common procedures and processes based on the use of globally agreed standards. Inherent in this approach is the need for precise mechanisms to define the data and for common coding systems to represent specific data items.

Trade and transport status codes are a much needed and required tool to facilitate the exchange of status information on goods, consignments and/or equipment, whenever electronic reporting takes place.

The UN/CEFACT work-program emphasises the need for developing recommendations, which simplify and harmonise the current practices and procedures used in international transactions. Within this context, the role of the UN/CEFACT Codes Working Group (CDWG) is to secure the quality, relevance and availability of code sets and code structures to support the objectives of UN/CEFACT, including managing the maintenance of UN/ECE Recommendations related to codes. The CDWG prepared this revision of Recommendation 24.

This second edition of Recommendation No. 24 supercedes and replaces the first edition (ECE/TRADE/WP.4/R.1067, September 1995).

II. RECOMMENDATION

At its sixth session in March 2000, UN/CEFACT agreed to adopt the following Recommendation. A list of the countries and organisations present at this session can be found in Annex 1.

¹ From the mission statement of UN/CEFACT

The Centre for the facilitation of procedures and practices for administration, commerce and transport (UN/CEFACT) recommends that Governments and business do implement the Trade and Transport Status Codes in support of a common approach to trade facilitation.

III. SCOPE

1. This Recommendation establishes a common code list for the identification of status information on goods, consignments and/or equipment.

IV. FIELD OF APPLICATION

2. This Recommendation applies in cases where a coded representation is required for the description of trade and transport status codes, for information exchange between parties involved in international trade and transport. It may be applied to all modes of transport.

V. EXPLANATORY TEXT

A. Definitions

3. The following definitions have been adopted for the purposes of this Recommendation:

code: A character string that represents a member of a set of values.

code list: The complete set of code values for a data item.

consignment: A separately identifiable amount of goods (available to be) transported from one consignor to one consignee via one or more than one modes of transport as specified in one single transport document.

data: A re-interpretable representation of information in a formalised manner suitable for communication, interpretation or processing.

document: Recorded permanent data containing information.

EDI (Electronic Data Interchange): The electronic transfer from computer application to computer application of commercial or administrative transactions using an agreed standard to structure the transaction or message data.

EDI message: An approved, published, and maintained formal description of how to structure the data required to perform a specific business function, in such a way as to allow for the transfer and handling of this data by electronic means.

electronic business: The process of transacting business electronically. This includes the sharing of unstructured or structured business information by any electronic means among suppliers, customers, governmental bodies, service providers and other parties in order to conduct and execute transactions in business, administrative and other activities.

facilitation: The implementation of measures leading to the simplification, standardisation and harmonisation of the formalities, procedures, documents and operations inherent to international trade transactions.

goods: All materials received from a shipper.

procedure: Steps to be followed in order to comply with a formality, including the timing, format and transmission method for the submission of required information.

standardization: The development of standards whose purpose is to align formalities, procedures, documents, information, and operations.

status reason: An explanation or justification of the status of consignments, goods and/or equipment.

transport status: A snapshot of the position and/or condition of consignments, goods and/or equipment at any point in time or place within the full transport or logistical chain.

B. Specific Considerations

4. In international trade there is a requirement to exchange information about the status of consignments, goods, equipment or means of transport at a certain time or place in the logistic chain.

5. More and more, Electronic Data Interchange is used as a means to convey information concerning the movement of goods throughout the transport chain.

6. For tracing and tracking purposes, the concept "trade and transport status codes" has been introduced and UN/EDIFACT messages have been developed to contain this information.

7. In order to ensure consistency in the exchange of information concerning the status of goods, consignments and/or equipment, a common understanding of the concepts "Transport status" and "Status reason" is necessary (see the definitions in section 5 A).

8. Users of the trade and transport status codes may choose codes to fulfil the business requirements to suit Transport status or Status reason as they wish.

9. Parties responsible for each stage of a trade transaction in a value chain are encouraged to use the Trade and Transport Codes in conjunction with other applicable UN Recommendations. These include:

- UN Recommendation 8 - Unique Identification Code Methodology - UNIC,
- UN Recommendation 11 - Documentary aspects of the international transport of dangerous goods.
- UN Recommendation 16 - UN/LOCODE - Code for Ports and Other Locations,
- UN Recommendation 18 - Facilitation Measures related to International Trade Procedures,
- UN Recommendation 19 - Codes for Modes of Transport,
- UN Recommendation 21 - Codes for Types of Cargo, Packages and Packaging Materials.

C. General Considerations

10. Emerging technologies such as those offered through Electronic Business and the World Wide Web are having an increasing impact on the way business is being conducted.

11. The growth in the number of parties using the Internet for commercial or personal purposes will have significant impact on the level of goods being moved across international boundaries.

12. Despite increased numbers of consignments and goods, unnecessary delays can occur because of incorrect or insufficient information related to the clearance and handling of the goods. EDI is one application of information technology specifically designed to address this issue through the electronic exchange of information. International standards such as UN/EDIFACT incorporate the use of various international code lists, such as the Trade and Transport Status Codes. Similarly, other developments using the Internet such as electronic forms, may depend on the use international code list.

VI. MAINTENANCE AND UPDATING

13. This Recommendation shall be maintained on behalf of UN/CEFACT by the UN/CEFACT Codes Working Group (CDWG).

14. Proposals for updating this Recommendation should be addressed to the Trade Facilitation Section, United Nations Economic Commission for Europe, Palais des Nations, CH-1211 Geneva 10, Switzerland.

15. Draft revisions to the body text and/or code list of this Recommendation shall be issued by the CDWG when required and shall be made available on the CDWG Web page under:

<http://www.unece.org/cefact/>

16. Draft revisions shall be subject to a public comment period of at least two months. UN/CEFACT Heads of Delegation shall be notified of the availability of a draft revision and the period for comment. Following the conclusion of the comment period, the CDWG shall address all comments received. Depending on the comments received, the CDWG shall issue a new draft revision or shall prepare a final revision for approval.

17. Final revisions of the body text of this Recommendation shall be approved by the UN/CEFACT Plenary.

18. Final revisions of the code list of this Recommendation shall be approved by the CDWG Plenary or in the case where the body text has also been revised, by the UN/CEFACT Plenary.

VII. CODE LIST PRESENTATION

19. The trade and transport code lists are annexed to this Recommendation, as follows:

Annex 2 Trade and transport status code list in code value order.

Annex 3 Trade and transport status code list in code name order.

20. The code lists are presented with the following columns:
