

Ministry of Infrastructure and the Environment

From ambition to action:

More connection, more involvement

It takes two to tango

- The Dutch approach for Sustainable Energy: the Energy Agreement for Sustainable Development is a broad-based coalition of governments and non-state actors involving 40 parties
- Also, worldwide action requires involvement of governments, private sector, knowledge sector and civil society organizations

- Participation: Alone you travel faster, but together you reach farther

It takes two to tango

- The Dutch approach for Resilient Cities: the Delta Programme brings together the very best of technical, organizational and financial expertise
- Exploring and innovation for sustainable transport require courage to let go: governments need to facilitate innovation by creating room for experiments
