

...but without global cooperation to harmonize new regulations for these transformational technologies, their tremendous potential will not be realized. Therefore, we urge international forums like WP.29 to ensure that:

- New regulations for these emerging technologies are data-driven and based on the latest science;
- They should remain technology-neutral and take a “patient” regulatory approach to spur innovation; and
- They should be flexible, allowing for compliance under self-certification or type approval systems
