PHILIP OKUNGU

DOCUMENTATION & INFORMATION MANAGER

AFRICAN ORGANISATION FOR STANDARDISATION (ARSO)

SPEAKER BIOGRAPHY

Philip Okungu Anyango is currently working with ARSO, as the Documentation and Information Manager, charged with Official information documentation, communications and members/stakeholder networks and outreach, through the office of the Secretary General. Prior to joining ARSO (1997-2000), he worked with various Non-governmental Organisations and Civil Society organisations in Nairobi, including the Family Support Organisation (Kenya Gender Data Resource Centre (KGDRC – (funded by the Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA); and the National NGOs Council of Kenya, mainly in supporting the Role of Information in facilitating Research and Sustainable Development, and gaining true experience on Gender issues and women development affairs.

A member of the PTB-Germany International QuISP Alumni Network, Philip deeply believes that Standardisation has a greater role in the Africa's Industrialisation, Integration and Development Agenda, and holds the key to the success of the implementation of the agenda 2063, UN Agenda 2030, and the AfCFTA Agreement, that put Gender mainstreaming as a pillar. He holds a master's Degree in Library and Information Science (1996) and bachelor's degree in Education (1992), both from Kenyatta University, Nairobi, Kenya.
