Tbilisi, Georgia

Funded by the European Union

EU4Environment
Water and Data in Eastern Partner Countries

1. Proceedings

The 9th Meeting of the Steering Committee (SC) of the National Policy Dialogue (NPD) on Integrated Water Resources Management (IWRM) in Georgia was chaired by Ms Maia Javakhishvili, Deputy Head of Department of Environment and Climate Change, and Ms Mariam Makarova, Head of Water Division, Ministry of Environmental Protection and Agriculture of Georgia. Across 1.5 days (including a half-day workshop on Nature-based Solutions), participants discussed and progressed water policy reform priorities for Georgia and used the opportunity to sharing information on the EU4Environment Water Resources and Environmental Data Programme and other ongoing donor-funded projects.

The agenda for the meeting can be found here and the list of participants here.

The opening session saw welcoming remarks from Ms Nino Tandilashvili, Deputy Minister, Ministry of Environmental Protection and Agriculture (MEPA) of Georgia, Mr Alexander Darras, Attaché, Team Leader Connectivity, Energy, Environment & Climate change, EU Delegation to Georgia, and Mr Alexander Zinke, Environment Agency Austria and Head of the Consortium for the EU4Environment Water Resources and Environmental Data programme. The speakers welcomed the Steering Committee members and other participants, recognising that the NPD meeting aims to identify priorities for water management and the environment, assess progress with recent policy reforms in the water and environment sectors and to brief participants on the latest developments with ongoing national and international environment projects in Georgia. The speakers stressed that the country is undertaking a major reform of its water sector to comply with the European Union Acquis, notably the Water Framework Directive (WFD) requirements, as set forth in its Association Agreement with the European Union. In this regard, the Draft Law on Water Resources developed by Georgia with EU support is a key element to pursue reforms in the water sector and ensure sustainable and qualitative water resources for all. The Draft Law is at an advanced stage of readings at the Parliament of Georgia with adoption expected in spring 2023. The country has also started enhancing capacities of the National Environmental Agency for conducting research for the quantitative and qualitative indicators of water resources in the entire territory of Georgia in compliance with the internationally recognized standards adopted by EU countries. Moreover, Georgia has developed a national program with the support of the European Union, which helps to ensure the monitoring of quantitative and qualitative indicators of water resources across the country.

Speakers welcomed the new EU4Environment – Water Resources and Environmental Data programme, which builds on the previous success of EUWI+ and SEIS II projects and aims to extend support for Georgia in strengthening the sustainable management of water resources and improving quality and access to environmental data.

The first and second sessions of the NPD agenda provided updates on the two components of EU4Environment Water and Data programme and presented an opportunity for Steering Committee members to consider policy questions proposed by the implementing partners. Thematic Session 1 discussed the challenges of water resources management with key discussion points, including the role of river basin management planning, improving water monitoring (including of COVID in wastewater) and the availability of data, linkages to water and health, legislative developments and enhanced transboundary cooperation in the Khrami-Debed and Alazani basins as well as support to the review and implementation of economic instruments and a mobilisation of finances for effective measures. Thematic session 2 captured a rich discussion on the challenges around environmental statistics, waste, air and land data and a specific discussion on some of the legal and institutional challenges in improving reporting and inter-institutional data availability.

Thematic session 3 provided a platform for donor exchange on challenges and opportunities for water sector with updates from a range of projects, important for the topics of the EU4Environment Water and Data programme. Speakers represented the following projects: USAID Economic Governance: support for Implementation of the Draft Water Law of Georgia, EU4EMBLAS project, UNDP-GCF: scaling-up multi-hazard early warning system and the use of climate information in Georgia, ADB/AFD: policy-based loan on water resources management project in Georgia.

On day 2, a half-day workshop on Nature based Solutions (NbS) discussed the potential of NbS to contribute towards improving the environmental performance in Georgia. Various Steering Committee members, joined by additional representatives of environmental NGOs, participated in the workshop to exchange experiences and consider how NbS might support their work to tackle relevant environmental objectives. The EU4Environment Water and Data implementing partners described the intent for work on this area under the new programme and that this introductory workshop aimed to raise awareness of the different type of NbS approaches and possibilities in this direction, ahead of more detailed and regional discussion as the programme progresses. Speakers from the European Commission's DG Environment, IUCN and the EU4Environment implementing partners presented background on latest trends in NbS and international case studies while speakers from the Society for Nature Conservation – SABUKO, Center for Biodiversity Conservation & Research – NACRES, Regional Environmental Center for the Caucasus – RECC, Caucasus Environmental NGO Network – CENN, UNDP-GEF Kura II Project provided direct experience from within Georgia. The workshop concluded with a site visit to the Krtsanisi Forest Park – NbS site, a wetland under restoration next to Mtkvari/Kura river.

All Steering Committee members and partners were thanked for their participation and commitment to this platform. It was agreed that the Steering Committee will meet again in approximately 1 year to review progress and share results of implementation of the projects presented at this meeting including monitoring realisation of environmental, social and economic benefits. Participants agreed that the Steering Committee should ask to establish a working group on Georgia's accession to the UNECE Protocol on Water and Health. Some participants commented that EU4Environment – Water Resources and Environmental Data programme will be very instrumental for future projects in the region.

2. Participation and visibility

Across the 1.5 days over 60 participants joined the NPD and NbS workshop either in person or in online mode. Participants were 48% female and 52% male.

A news articles were published on the MEPA web site, EU4Environment Water and Data programme site, social media posts were posted through partner’s channels. Key links are reproduced below:

About National Policy Dialogues

National Policy Dialogues facilitates policy discussions where stakeholders meet to advance water policy reforms. NPDs are driven by the demand from the host countries and are usually chaired by heads of respective government agencies. A variety of stakeholders participate in the meetings, such as ministries and government agencies and institutions, as well as nongovernmental organisations, the business community, parliamentary bodies, academia. Participants typically include international organisations and EU Member States active in water policy reforms in each country. Under the EU-funded EU4Environment Water Resources and Environmental Data Programme, NPDs are supported in the five Eastern Partner countries.

About EU4Environment – Water Resources and Environmental Data

This programme aims at improving people’s wellbeing in EU’s Eastern Partner Countries and enabling their green transformation in line with the European Green Deal and the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). The programme’s activities are clustered around two specific objectives: 1) support a more sustainable use of water resources and 2) improve the use of sound environmental data and their availability for policy-makers and citizens. The programme is implemented by five Partner organisations: Environment Agency Austria (UBA), Austrian Development Agency (ADA), International Office for Water (OiEau) (France), Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD), United Nations Economic Commission for Europe (UNECE). The programme is principally funded by the European Union and co-funded by the Austrian Development Cooperation and the French Artois-Picardie Water Agency based on a budget of EUR 12,75 million (EUR 12 million EU contribution). The implementation period is 2021-2024.
