General guide on how to proceed step by step to accede to the Convention
Basic common steps in the accession process with Water Convention

Outlined in the Convention FAQs publication
Accession to the Conventions

• Any Member State of the United Nations may be a party to the two Global Water Conventions but they should declare the extent of their competence with respect to the matters governed by the Convention.

• Practical road map is recommended take into practice from good practices and lessons learned from the finalized accession processes to the Water Convention.
Descriptive diagram of the accession process

Preliminary discussion and expression of interest by the Ministry in charge of water
- Appointment of focal points and participation in activities
- Article-by-article review of the Convention by technical and legal services to establish compatibility with commitments
- Presentation of the Convention and discussion between the relevant departments of the Ministry
- Sending a letter of expression of interest

Discussion extended to relevant sectoral ministries and the Ministry of Foreign Affairs as well as any relevant actors
- Discussion in an informal setting (exchange meeting) preparatory to the national workshop or formal (creation of an interdepartmental committee or working group).
- Prepare the list of questions and topics around the benefits and opportunities to be addressed during the workshop

Organization of a national workshop on the Convention
- Discussion on the benefits of the Convention and the challenges of implementation between key actors for the accession process (relevant sectoral ministries, Ministry of Foreign Affairs, parliament, prime minister, basin bodies, civil society etc.), experts of the Water Convention (Convention secretariat, international experts) and technical and financial partners

Start of the national procedure for ratifying treaties (with a view to accession)
- Procedure varies from country to country but requires close collaboration between the Ministry in charge of the water sector, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, the Prime Minister, the Parliament, the Office of the President of the Republic and the Secretariat of the Water Convention
- The duration of the procedure varies from country to country and depends on the level of political commitment of the Ministry of Water and the functioning of the institutions.
Consideration of the accession project by the Government:
- Preparation of the presentation note to the Council of Ministers by the Ministry in charge of water in close collaboration with the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and the General Secretariat of the Government.
- Examination of the draft ratification in the Council of Ministers.

Review of the constitutionality of the membership project (if necessary):
- Examination by the Constitutional Court or the Supreme Court depending on the country.

Examination of the draft accession to Parliament:
- Examination and discussion by the competent Law Commission.
- Discussion and adoption in plenary by Parliament of the law ratifying the Convention.

Signature by the President of the Republic of the instruments of ratification:
- Preparation of instruments of ratification by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.
- Instruments should refer to Decision VI/3.
- Signature by the President of the Republic.
- Publication in the Official Journal.
- Publication in the Official Journal.

Deposit of the instruments of ratification in New York:
- Deposit of instruments of ratification acceding to the Convention with the Treaty Section of the United Nations Secretariat in New York.
- Coordinate the repository with the secretariat of the Water Convention.

ZIMBABWE IS CURRENTLY HERE.
Lessons learned from accession processes

• It is crucial that a dedicated focal point (ideally senior official), assisted by other staff, follows the process proactively
• Important to mobilize high-level political support
• Link accession to existing laws and commitments such as SDGs
• Support by the regional organizations and basin organizations is very useful
• Importance to involve different crucial ministries early on, such as Foreign Affairs and Justice
Possible support from the Water Convention

• Legal and technical support by the secretariat (helpdesk) and, if requested, the Implementation committee can answer questions
• Financial and technical support for the organization of one national workshop on the Convention
• Expert missions
• Support can be facilitated from other existing Parties (“twinning”)
• Support for the participation of experts from eligible countries in activities under the Convention with a view to sharing experience and capacity-building on the Convention
Thank you for your attention!