CALL FOR SIDE EVENT PROPOSALS

The United Nations Economic Commission for Europe (UNECE), together with the UN Women Regional Office for Europe and Central Asia (ECARO), invites proposals for side events to take place during the Beijing+30 Regional Review Meeting scheduled for 21-22 October 2024.

Member States, United Nations entities, international organizations, and other interested stakeholders should submit side event proposals via the following link at their earliest convenience, and no later than 10 August 2024.

All proposals received will be reviewed by UNECE and UN Women, who will respond to the proposed event organizers by 1 September 2024. As slots are limited, priority will be given to events organized by more than one Member State and multiple organizations (more than three).

Side events (in-person) will be scheduled during the 8:45–9:45 am and 12:00–13:15 time slots.

UNECE facilities can host a maximum of four in-person events with space for 50 participants each. Organizers intending to facilitate virtual participation will need to generate their own links. Unfortunately, neither translation services nor online support will be provided for in-person side events in 2024.

Side events are open to all Conference participants.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTION

The proposed side events should support the objectives of the Economic Commission for Europe Beijing+30 Regional Review Meeting (see 'Background' section below). They are expected to complement the inter-governmental meeting by taking stock of progress, addressing remaining and emerging challenges, and providing original perspectives on gender equality and women's empowerment issues in the UNECE region.

Proposed side events will be selected according to the following criteria:

- Relevance: Side events should be relevant to the 12 critical areas of concern in the Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action. Other emerging thematic issues will also be considered. Successful side event proposals will ensure the sharing of good practices from a variety of stakeholders and identify partnership opportunities and accelerated action at multiple levels.
- Multistakeholder participation: Successful side event proposals will ensure inclusion and diversity (particularly geographical, regional, and gender balances) and include a mix of stakeholders, including governments; civil society; academia; the private sector; United Nations; regional, inter-governmental, or other multilateral organizations; etc.

- Priority will be accorded to side events organized by more than one Member State and multiple organizations (more than three).
- Interactive and inclusive session design: Successful side event proposals will design the events to be as interactive as possible, including by allocating sufficient time for interaction with the audience.
- Innovation: Side events that present innovative designs in terms of session format, content and/ or dialogue setup will be favorably considered.

RESPONSIBILITIES OF CO-ORGANIZERS

- One of the co-organizers of the proposed side event should be designated as the lead organizer and communications focal point.
- Organizers are responsible for all arrangements for the side events (generation and management of virtual participation link, confirmation of logistics arrangements, registration of speakers, broad-based participation, event marketing, etc.).
- The Conference organizers will provide a room, screen, Wi-Fi, and basic technical assistance. All other costs related to the side event will be borne by the side-event organizers.
- Once side events are confirmed, the Conference organizers will discuss details of the room set-up and equipment and other organizational aspects with the side event organizers and request them to provide a concept note and flyer to be posted on the Conference website.

The lead side event co-organizer should prepare a summary of outcomes of 2 to 5 pages and submit it to the Conference organizers by 10 November 2024. A template will be prepared to ensure uniform reporting.
